Literary Ball at the Public Library

(Nacogdoches, TX) – The Friends of the Nacogdoches Public Library present a unique experience, the first ever Literary Ball, on Saturday, February 23rd at 5:30 p.m.

Attendees are invited to dress as their favorite fictional character or author and can expect an evening of delicious food and adult beverages with recipes drawn straight from the pages of popular books. A costume contest and a raffle for some amazing locally-sourced prizes will add some friendly competition. “In addition to the costume contest and raffle, we’re plotting and scheming to design puzzles and challenges hidden around the building and nestled in displays expressly created for the event,” says Crystal Hicks, assistant library director. “And while this event isn’t for kids, it will benefit the thousands of children who are reached by library services through daily visits, special events, and outreach to local schools and organizations.” There will also be future projects on display to highlight just exactly how contributions will be put to use, and feedback and input are welcomed. Tickets are $40 and may be purchased in person, from the library’s website at www.ci.nacogdoches.tx.us/library, or on Facebook and Eventbrite.
